I have no idea how did I found this brand, but few weeks ago I have landed on their website and discovered their first Winter 2012 collection. I believe it was a sign, the mixture of Stockholmish and Londonish heritage, even though it has a strong New York influence; a married couple Max (from London) and Parisa (from Stockholm) made this sophisticated ready to wear line that is perfect for someone like me, as the designers have stated, it is a collection for an international city girl. I believe that you will find something interesting in this collection as well, my lovely readers.

I am sure I have already put you into my weakness for Swedish style, the simplicity of the pieces, the basics; I just adore. The MaxFowles brand has one more important feature, the English clean design concept has add an unique vision into this collection, that I am looking forward to, when it will be available online. For now on, we have to wait until the collection will launch, however I know already, it will be available in this online store Revolve Clothing and very big plus for us from Europe, there is free international shipping! For you in US, the collection will be available in boutiques such as Ron Herman and Elyse Walker.

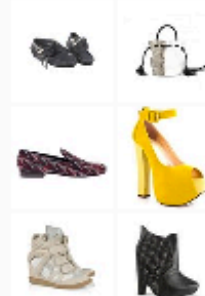

I have choose my favourite looks, especially the detailing of the jeans is new or the black skirt looks stunning. I am also fun of black dresses and when it comes to leather, oh YES! And the white shirts? emm, all the pieces are very sophisticated and matching together. I don't remember there was other collection that I liked it all! Very simple, sophisticated collection, ladies and gents this is MAX FOWLES, Femme Winter 2012.
